Premium Engine Exhaust Silencers

HARCO Manufacturing has grown to become a leading fabricator of premium engine exhaust silencers as well as providing a complete line of supporting products. Combining over 55 years of experience with innovative design solutions we are committed to total customer satisfaction.

HARCO is the originator and inventor of the low profile "Hockey Puck" style engine exhaust silencer that has set the standard for compact silencer design. Often imitated but never duplicated today our unique low profile silencer designs provide top sound attenuation performance, low back pressures and space saving characteristics that make it a logical choice for most applications and industries. Currently pending are new technologies and design developments that will make the low profile silencer an even better performer.

All HARCO Manufacturing low profile and cylindrical engine exhaust silencers are available in limitless inlet and outlet configurations providing maximum design and application flexibility to meet each customer's individual needs. Each silencer and supporting product is designed to provide the highest quality craftsmanship and attenuation performance in the smallest overall package size possible. HARCO is an ABS certified manufacturer.

Our sales and engineering services are adept at providing custom solutions for the toughest noise and emission control applications. We offer a diverse product line of both diesel and natural gas engine applications. HARCO serves as a one-stop full service manufacturer capable of meeting all of your exhaust silencer and related component needs from the engine to the outside ambient air. Our professional staff combines excellent customer service with in-depth technical knowledge in order to provide quick responses and viable solutions saving you time and effort in the decision making process.

Custom engineering applications, Advanced sizing technology, Sound attenuation performance, Excellent lead times, Design diversity, Low pressure drops, Quality and value all represent the foundation upon which all HARCO products and services are predicated and produced. Prime contract involvement with the U.S. Air Force, Defense Supply Agency, U.S. Coast Guard, U.S. Army Tank Automotive Command and the U.S. Navy aid in keeping our company and products progressive and technically advanced. Dedicated to total customer satisfaction by offering premium products and superior service we look forward the opportunity of serving you and your organization.
